

Angela Sandone-Barr, Ph.D, N.C.Psy.A., is a certified and NAAP-Registered Psychoanalyst in private practice in Philadelphia and South Jersey. As a faculty member of the Philadelphia School of Psychoanalysis, she serves as Director of Clinical Services of its training clinic, the Philadelphia Consultation Center. She is a training analyst and clinical supervisor of candidates in the institute's Psychoanalytic Certification program. In her position as Director of Clinical Services she oversees the clinical practices of all psychoanalytic candidates who practice at the Consultation Center. In addition she trains and supervises student interns from nine Philadelphia area university and college programs, in Psy.D and Master's level programs in Social Work and Counseling, who are doing their clinical field placements at the Consultation Center. She also manages all state and city licenses and contracts, which encompasses over 300 active clinical cases per week.